Peck-Spooner Nuptials Held . . .

St. George's Anglican Church, Hartmann was the scene of a pretty wedding on August 14th at 4 o'clock when Lydia Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Spooner, became the bride of Mr. John E. Peck, eldest son of the late Andrew Peck and Mrs. M. Campbell. Rev. C. Wilkins officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was tastefully decorated with summer flowers and gladioli. The bride given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor length gown of chantilly type lace and tulle poised over satin. A chapel veil of illusion net held in place by a lace and pearl sequin cap. She carried her grandfather's Bible topped with an orchid. Her only jewellery was a pearl on a chain.

Her bridesmaid was her cousin, Miss June Delowsky who wore a ballerina length gown of deep pink net over taffeta. Mr. Clayton Phillips was best man. Servers were Harold and Michael Spooner.

For her daughters wedding Mrs. Spooner chose a blue sheath dress with pink accessories. Mrs. Campbell, mother of the groom, wore a blue flowered dress with navy duster. Her accessories were white. Her corsages were pink roses.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. Vic Johnston played the organ. A reception for the guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table. On either side of the bride couple were candelabra featuring white candles and petunias.

Mr. Tony Spooner, uncle of the bride was master of ceremonies and proposed the toast to the bride, which the groom ably responded.

Following the honeymoon spent in Montana and Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Peck will make their home in Edmonton. Out-of-town guests were from Sidney, B.C., Edmonton, Two Hills, Exshaw and Didsbury.

The weather continues to be below normal temperatures and above normal precipitation was experienced during the week of August 22nd to August 28th.

On August 22nd a storm of major proportions developed in the foothills west of Sundre and moved in a south, south-east direction. Large amounts of hail fell in its path, causing wide-spread destruction to crops. North-west of Calgary the storm split, one arm moving through Bowness and south-east through Shepard. The other portion of the storm moved east, south-east, north of Calgary in the direction of Delacour. North-east of Calgary some small areas received considerable damage. Practically all damage caused by the Bowness-Shepard swath of hail was outside the suppression area.

On the 24th of August a small storm caused considerable damage to crops. North-west of Calgary the storm split, one arm moving through Bowness and south-east through Shepard. The other portion of the storm moved east, south-east, north of Calgary in the direction of Delacour. North-east of Calgary some small areas received considerable damage. Practically all damage caused by the Bowness-Shepard swath of hail was outside the suppression area.

Roamin'*Hail Suppression — Yes or No? . . .

The devastating hail storm that swept through large areas of the hail suppression area on Wednesday of last week, really started the tongues wagging. Does seeding the clouds help to suppress such storms or is it a flop? That's the questions that are being batted around on every street corner these days. We will wait until the end of the season to assess the damage done before we can give an opinion. Right now it sure 'nough doesn't look good.

Road Cleaning Yet, Yet, Yet . . .

One of our pet beefs, and that of many others who operate near what we fondly called the "black-top", is the amount of gravel and refuse that has blown into the picture. Two men with a shovel won't alleviate the situation. What goes? Do we wait until the snow flies and make a winter work project of it, when the snow covers the sore spots? Doesn't make sense to us! Let's do it now, however how!

Keep Thin Plastic Away From Children*A CAUTION TO PARENTS

Those polythene bags which preserve your food, keep dry cleaning and laundry dustproof and serve many useful purposes in the home, should never be left near children.

As with so many products of recent scientific progress thin plastic should be treated with wisdom and caution. Just as electrical fixtures, refrigerators, patent medicines and cleaning fluids, which have been such a boon to comfort and health in recent years, have become normal, useful part of every household, so will plastic — if the same reasonable precautions are taken to ensure the safety of children.

Remember, none of these scientific discoveries are menaces in themselves. It is only through carelessness or lack of information on the part of the parents that they become dangerous.

No plastic material ever attacked child. Instances of suffocation by plastic in every case have been due to misuse by adult. In some instances, mothers have re-used plastic material originally intended to protect dry-cleaned clothing, as crib-mattress or pillow covers. In others, plastic bags were actually given to children as playthings, or left around the home where they could obtain them.

HERE ARE THE FACTS —
 Danger to children lies in the fact that this material is completely air-tight. If placed in an infant's crib, the thin fabric may be attracted to the baby's face by static electricity, and cling there, cutting off air intake and causing suffocation.

So far in Canada 10 deaths due to suffocation attributed to plastic have occurred in 1959 — a small figure, true, especially when compared with the countless thousands of child deaths due to auto accidents, drowning, electrical mishaps and poisonings, and even smothering by soft bedding, particularly pillows. However, it does indicate that an additional hazard has joined the ranks — one which will bear watching in equal measure.

Simple Solution — Common Sense
 Here are some basic, common-sense rules for safe use of plastic in your home:

1. Thin limp plastic film such as that used by dry cleaners to protect garments and blankets should never be used as a makeshift cover for crib mattresses or pillows. Special covers of heavy gauge plastic are designed for this purpose and available at most stores.
 2. Keep thin plastic bags away from children, the same as you would poisons, matches or knives. IT IS NOT A TOY.

3. Train older children never to place plastic bags over the head or leave near small children.
 4. When this thin plastic material has served its original purpose discard it safely. Either burn it, use it as a garbage wrap or tie a knot in it before throwing into garbage container.

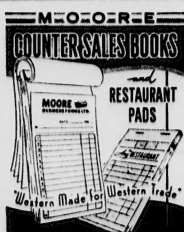

Thin plastic is a great advance in home convenience and sanitation — use it wisely and safely.

Guest Editorial*MOST BUBBLES MUST BREAK SOMETIME . . .

The announcement from Ottawa this week that unemployment insurance rates will jump next month is sure to cause hostility generally among employer and employee.

There has been a feeling for some time in hundreds of hearts that they were being taken for a ride, and that the industrious and conscientious workman is paying the shot for some of his brothers who may be less eager to be continuously employed. An article in a recent issue of Maclean's Magazine points out that the development of fraud in the receipt of unemployment insurance benefits is widespread, and that even cabinet ministers are aware of the situation but concludes with the remark that generally people don't seem concerned, so nothing is likely to be done. Regardless of the feelings of Maclean's writer, there have been rumblings among many workers for some time and this latest increase is likely to provoke more. That the reserves of the unemployment insurance fund generally should be at such a disturbingly low level in a time of relative boom should be considered a scandal to the administration. No one will ignore, or can forget, the concern last winter over the high level of unemployment, and it is perfectly true that this caused deep inroads into the assets of the fund. But if it is possible to deplete the reserves so seriously when the actual percentage of unemployed is at a comparatively low level, of what real use would the fund ever be in time of economic disaster such as the thirties?

NOTES FROM

District
Agriculturist
HOWARD
FULCHER

Shipping fever (hemorrhagic septicaemia) is a serious disease occurring mainly in fall and early winter months. It is associated mainly with feeder cattle and the transportation of some, but cattle do not need to be shipped to develop this disease.

Shipping fever is caused primarily by predisposing factors which lower the animal's resistance. These factors are rough handling in round-up and shipping, wet yards and corrals, lack of bedding, change or lack of feed, overcrowding and sudden weather changes, snow, rain and coldness. In general the change from pasture with cows to corrals accompanied by weather changes is a shock to feeders and naturally lowers their resistance leaving them quite susceptible to infection.

Symptoms of the disease are sudden listlessness 2 to 3 days, first signs are high temperature, loss of appetite, shivering, discharge at nose, stiffness and sometimes diarrhoea. The animal develops a gaunt appearance accompanied by distressed breathing often in few days pneumonia and death. The disease may assume a chronic course and animals linger on, or in mild cases recover in 10 to 14 days.

Control and prevention is important if heavy losses are to be avoided. The key to reducing loss is careful planned management in handling feeder cattle on the farm or during shipping, eliminate or lessen all predisposing factors as far as possible.

Bacterins and anti-serums can be used and will give a lot of protection, bacterins are injected about 14 days before shipment causing the animal to build up resistance, anti-serum gives immediate increase in resistance but this lasts only for 2 to 3 weeks.

Infected animals can be treated with sulfa drugs and various antibiotics, should any outbreak occur call in an experienced veterinarian.

DEAR HOMEMAKERS,

Let's face it . . . To busy mothers all over the country, September brings the same old problem: What to put in the children's lunch boxes. Might as well accept it cheerfully and organize your work accordingly. First of all, ask for ideas from the ones that are going to eat the lunches. If you pack what they like as well as what you know they should have, you can be pretty sure that they'll eat it.

For convenience, keep all the lunch making supplies and equipment on or near the table or counter space where you work. In addition to the utensils you will need wrapping paper or plastic containers with covers or small jars with tight fitting lids.

Children appreciate variety and color in foods just as much as grown-ups. Vary the fillings each day to keep them from becoming tiresome.

Vary the sandwich breads too, using rye, whole wheat, graham, raisin, nut and fruit breads.

Include milk — either cold in a vacuum bottle or hot in cocoa or in soups made with milk. Custards, milk puddings, and cheese sandwiches are easy ways of including extra milk in children's lunches.

Crisp vegetables, carrot sticks, celery stalks, cucumber wedges, and tomatoes go well with sandwiches. Fresh fruits are also very good.

Include something sweet and satisfying in every lunch box. Cookies, cup-cakes or squares of cake carry well and add a special fill-up.

For a good lunch to remain good it must be neatly and attractively packed. Be sure to put heavy foods in containers at the bottom of the lunch boxes. Then add sandwiches, cookies and other lighter foods.

Line the lunch box with a gayly colored napkin to brighten the appearance of the lunch box. An attractive lunch looks more inviting and will be more readily eaten by the children.

Every lunch-carrier likes a surprise; some reminder that his lunch was packed with loving care. Mixed, dried fruits, nut meats, popcorn, marshmallows, sandrops are only a few of the surprises that are sure to make a hit.

Two small girls brought home a box full of dirt the other day and warned their mother to be very careful with it. "All right," she promised. "But tell me, why is it so special?" "Instant mud pies," they answered.

FIRST DAY . . .

I stand at the door on a September morn
And watch as she goes through the gate.

I answer the wave of a little brown hand

As she calls to the others to wait. A primer is pressed to the fast-beating heart.

With a pencil, eraser, and ruler, I'm only a mother — so pardon my tears.

My baby is going to school. Oh, I would not stop one moment of time.

The tried way of nature is best. My baby must lose her innocent ways

And become world-wise like the rest. She must learn for the time

When her mother is gone. And into the throng she is hurled. But I'm only a mother — so pardon my tears. She is going out into the world. Selected

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Man's God-given dominion over disease and enslavement will be stressed at Christian Science services Sunday.

Accounts of spiritual dominion to be read from the Bible include Christ Jesus' healing of the "woman having an issue of blood twelve years" (Luke 8) and Paul's healing of Eutychus who "fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead" (Acts 20).

The Lesson-Sermon is entitled "Man". From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read this passage: "The enslavement of man is legitimate. It will cease when man enters into his heritage of freedom, his God-given dominion over the material sense" (228:11-13).

The Golden Text is from Genesis (1:26): "God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth."

DISTRICT NEWS

M.V.B.C. NEWS

(From Our Own Correspondent)

The president, Rev. D. M. Taylor and family arrived on campus last Wednesday afternoon. It was surely a delightful time for us all, and they were so glad to be back. This week they are moving into their new house. When they returned they found the house cleaned, floors waxed and everything ready for occupation.

Mrs. D. M. Taylor visited her mother in Edmonton last weekend; Keith and Sherrill accompanied her. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Eby entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ira Stauffer, Mrs. Olga Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stauffer and Miss Gladys Eby last Sunday for dinner.

Miss Doreen Rossing will be on campus during the month of September and will be cleaning the school during that time. Miss Ann Snyder will be helping during part of this time also. These two girls have been doing Vacation Bible School work for the last several weeks. They will both be seniors in college this winter.

More applications are coming in to the registrar's office each week. Quite a number of young people will be here from Washington and Idaho this winter. There will likely be a freshman class of about twenty young people. Some people in the community are also applying for admission to the voice department of the college. Mr. and Mrs. Moyer will soon be here, and they can then be contacted.

A room in the music studio is now being prepared for a work of office. The gestetter and all the material needed in that work will be placed there and the office of the secretary-treasurer relieved of congestion. This will make it possible for teachers to work in it at any time during the day without interruption. We are glad for this additional facility.

We wish to extend our congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Lavern Traub on the arrival of their wee son. Lavern will be teaching again this year in the college as well as his local group of boys and girls.

Miss Elaine Wolfe, Reg. nurse was on campus for a while last weekend. She is looking forward to her new position as Dean of Women this coming winter. Her sister, Joyce, a teacher from B.C. is expected to be a student here this winter.

GOLF TOURNAMENT SLATED FOR INNISFAIL

President Vince Tedeschini, of the Innisfail Golf and Country Club, said today that all final arrangements for the largest annual Labor Day Golf Tournament - September 6th and 7th - had been completed there.

The Innisfail tournament, long one of Central Alberta's major sport attractions, is open to all amateurs.

Tedeschini said that indications were that entries would be drawn from leading clubs throughout Alberta for the Labor Day Tournament here.

In past years entries for the event have come from Calgary, Edmonton, Drumheller, Red Deer, Canmore, Olds, Sundre and numerous other points.

Course conditions for the Labor Day Tournament are the best in the history of the event, it was reported Sunday by Pete Wilson, caretaker at the Innisfail Golf and Country Club.

Catering for the tournament, which includes full course hot meals, will be done by the members

ISLAND PROVINCE SAYS
"YES" TO DIFFERENCER

Progressive Conservatives were elected Tuesday night to head the Prince Edward Island government for the first time since the early 1930's.

By mid-evening the Progressive Conservatives had elected 18 members to the 30-seat legislature and were leading in four other seats. Seven Liberals were reported elected including Premier Alex Matheson and three of his cabinet ministers. Two — Agriculture Minister Eugene Cullen and Education Minister Keir Clark — lost their seats.

The seats of two other ministers still were in doubt.

The result had a precedent in the election of 1931. The Progressive Conservatives were elected in the island a year after the Conservatives won control of the federal government. The Liberals returned to power there in 1935 and the Conservatives had not held more than 10 seats again until Tuesday night.

Only Newfoundland now has a Liberal provincial government.
